IMPEACHMENT TRIAL BREAKS UP IN CLASH

Walton Leaves Courtroom in Oklahoma City, Asserting Trial Is Unfair

ATTORNEYS CLASH

Governor's Case Before Senate Is Interrupted By Action

Oklahoma City, Nov. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton broke up in a tumult today after the executive declaring that he was not receiving a fair trial stalked from the courtroom with his counsel and precipitated a clash between L. T. Sprague, a member of his legal staff, and Tom Anglin, president of the senate.

The governor's action came after the senate court by a roll call of 23 to 13 had declared that article 17, charging issuance of a large number of special police commissions, was a matter of law and that all previous testimony on that subject be expunged from the records. Claude Nowlin, defense attorney, took exception to the vote and declared the governor was being "denied equal protection of the law" guaranteed by the state and national constitutions.

Governor Walton then took the floor and declared in a brief statement to the court that he had been sitting at the council table for many days "fighting for my rights and fighting for my home."

The official court record of Governor Walton's statement follows: "Mr. Chief Justice and members of this court—I have been sitting here fighting for my rights, my honor and my home for 10 days. I don't want to come here to be humiliated. I don't want to stand the humiliation any longer for myself, for my family or my honorable attorneys. You may proceed as you deem best."

The governor, Mrs. Walton and each member of his legal staff walked from the court and left the court sitting at a row of empty chairs, all that remained of the defense in the impeachment trial.

BLOOM NAMED PUBLISHER OF LEAGUE PAPER

First Issue Will Be Published From Staats Anzeiger Plant, Bismarck

The first issue of the North Dakota Nonpartisan, weekly organ of the Nonpartisan league to be established, probably will be published early in December, it was said by H. Bloom, named manager of the paper, before leaving the city today upon the breaking up of the directors' meeting.

Under present plans the paper will be six pages, issued each Wednesday and selling for $2 a year. It will endeavor to carry the more important state news and a limited amount of general news in addition to the political news, Mr. Bloom said.

The directors named Mr. Bloom manager, and he resigned as president of the board of directors, being succeeded by Thomas Maloney of Webster. The board of directors is composed of Maloney, a farmer; S. S. McDonald and Pat Daly, labor leaders; R. W. Frasier, county auditor of Divide county, and Mrs. Minnie D. Craig.

On motion of Mr. McDonald, seconded by Mr. Daly, it was decided to have the paper published from the Staats Anzeiger newspaper plant in Bismarck. There was objection to publishing the paper here, made by the Farmer-Labor State Board, local league weekly, Mr. Bloom personally favored Grand Forks as the place of publication. It is said by some that there may yet be a change of plans in this regard.

In the vote for directors, J. H. Bloom, first district, got 179 votes; Mrs. Craig, second district 233 votes; Pat Daly, third district 117 votes; at large, R. W. Frasier, 201; S. S. McDonald, 90. Several others received votes for director at large, Frasier and McDonald being high. Tom Maloney, who succeeded Mr. Bloom as president, got 52 votes.

WILD GAME TO BE PLENTIFUL NEXT SEASON

Prairie Chickens and Ducks Both Coming Through in Fine Shape, Board Says

PRESERVES DESIGNATED

Right to Hunt Signed Off For 10 Years by Owners—Trappers Must Have License

Encourage by work already done and reports from throughout the state game and fish commission hopes to see native game life well preserved and perhaps increased in North Dakota. Although the receipts from licenses in the state this year will greatly exceed either of the two previous years, members of the board say that there was an unusually large number of prairie chickens and grouse to live through the hunting season and duck shooting is reported generally unsatisfactory throughout the state, which indicates that there will be no shortage of ducks. It also is reported that George Dickinson, secretary of the board, that Chinese pheasant flocks are increasing in the state.

W. C. Taylor, president of the board; Dr. H. L. Rice of Beach, vice-president and Mr. Dickinson hope that the sportsmen of the state will cooperate with the board in its efforts to protect the game and fish in the state from unlawful acts. It was stated the board is not seeking prosecutions, but it is emphasized by members that the laws will be enforced and sportsmen are invited to report violations to the board, with assurance that the names of those reporting violations will not be used.

The number of game preserves in the state is increasing. Under the board's plan, sanctioned by law, owners of a tract of land, generally a section, may have the land designated a game preserve by agreeing to protect the game at all times for 10 years. Members of the owner's family are prevented from carrying a gun on the preserve. The board has completed a reservoir dam at Spiritwood Lake, the main hatchery of the state, and is endeavoring to stock lakes and streams with fish. The Jamestown Sportsmen's Club gave $1,000 for the hatchery work at Jamestown.

Some difficulty is anticipated with the laws relating to trapping. It was stated by Mr. Dickinson that while skunks, weasels, fox and coyotes are not protected, many farmers are trapping skunk and weasels and keeping them in captivity until their fur is prime in violation of law. To do this it is necessary to have a permit from the board, for which a $5 fee is required. Trapper's licenses also must be taken out.

The shooting of muskrats, on which the season is open from Jan. 10 to March 10, is prohibited at any time. It also is provided by law that a trap must not be set in a muskrat house, as this means the extermination of all muskrats in it, board members say. Boys under 16 do not need licenses to trap.

WATER COMPANY PAYS ITS TAX

The Bismarck Water Supply Company has paid the county sheriff $24,194.17, taxes and penalty and interest for the years 1921 and 1922. The cash will be distributed to the various political subdivisions receiving shares. The tax, which was paid yesterday, represents $3,801.49 of penalty and interest in addition to the levy.

DEMPSEY FILMS BRING A FINE

Fargo, Nov. 17.—Harry Benson of Great Falls, Mont., today was fined $500 by Judge Andrew Miller of the United States district court for introducing motion pictures of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby in the state.

Benson pleaded guilty to violating the federal law prohibiting interstate commerce in prizefight films. It was said his fine would be paid today.

C. P. BURNSTAD IS ACQUITTED IN MONTANA

Former "Cattle King of North Dakota" Is Held Not Guilty By a Jury

Chris P. Burnstad of Burnstad, N. D., formerly called "the cattle king of North Dakota," was found not guilty by a jury at Bozeman, Montana, of obtaining money from the St. Paul Cattle and Loan Company in a $30,000 cattle deal, in a verdict returned Thursday night, according to the Bozeman Daily Chronicle.

The verdict was reached after nine hours of deliberation. It was charged by the state of Montana that Burnstad represented the cattle and loan company in purchasing cattle in Gallatin county in 1919, that he had orders to draw up to $45,000 for stock, and that Burnstad misrepresented the number of cattle purchased and still owed the company $30,000.

Burnstad, testifying in his own behalf, said he had done business with the concern for 18 years and had borrowed hundreds of thousands of dollars from it. He said that before he started to make deals in Gallatin county, Montana, in 1919 he owed the company $160,000. He received $60,000 additional to buy cattle, he said. Inability to get cattle in 1919 and a later slump in prices caused heavy losses, he told the jury. He said some of the money had been sent to North Dakota, but that it was to pay feed bills for the previous year and asserted this was done with consent of officers of the company.

Burnstad was represented by George D. Pease, Arthur Atkins of Napoleon and Judge W. S. Lauder of Wapeton.

CO-EDS SPURN BOOZE BOYCOTT

Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—Although 8,000 University of Wisconsin co-eds registered unanimous disapproval of drinking, and appealed to federal authorities to take action against intoxication and liquor, they refused to sanction a proposed resolution prohibiting association with any men who drink at a compulsory meeting held here last night.

"The women of Wisconsin go down on record as opposed to drinking," declared the resolution passed. "They shall sign a petition and present it to the federal authorities in order to have definite action taken against intoxication and its sources in the city of Madison."

"How can we tell if they have been drinking," was the universal chorus when a resolution prohibiting co-eds from dating with men who drink was proposed.

STATES ATTORNEYS ARE CALLED IN CONFERENCE HERE NOV. 27-28

A conference of states attorneys of North Dakota will be held in Bismarck on November 27 and 28 on the call of Attorney General George F. Shafer, he announced today. A formal invitation to the states attorneys to attend the conference will go out from Mr. Shafer's office late today.

The purpose of the conference is to consider problems of special interest to the states attorneys as administrators of the criminal laws of the state, the attorney general said. It is expected that the recent program of President Coolidge's aid down for law enforcement will be presented to the states attorneys and consideration given important problems in North Dakota.

Prohibition enforcement is expected to form an important topic for discussion.

Firm in His Belief That This Section of North Dakota Is the Best Place For Poor Man to Start Farming Operations.

Jim Davis in an interview today said that he came to Burleigh County in the fall of 1916. His entire available capital at that time was $200.00 in cash. The next spring he rented a farm near Bismarck, bought one cow and that summer borrowed sufficient money to buy a team of horses and a small amount of seed and hand machinery. This debt was paid off largely by working out for his neighbors. That fall at a sale he purchased four cows on time. The next year he put in 50 acres of corn and in 1919 commenced raising hogs.

Each year his cattle and hogs have increased in number and he has increased his corn acreage. In 1922 he had 50 acres of corn, sold for $1,000.00 worth of hogs and at the present time he has 50 head of cattle of which 25 will be milk cows next year, has about 10 head of work horses, all the machinery that he needs and plenty of seed and feed and 1600 bushels of corn to sell.

On his personal property, he has a very moderate bank indebtedness and should have no difficulty whatever in paying this up next year in full from his surplus cattle and hogs.

All this has been accomplished from the results of his work on the farms which he has rented, without having received capital from any outside source, excepting the use of borrowed money from time to time.

Mr. Davis believes that North Dakota is all right for the poor man or for any other man who isn't afraid to work, that diversification in farming particularly in milking cows, raising hogs and corn is the sure road to success. He does not believe, however, in entirely disregarding the raising of wheat, but says that whatever wheat is seeded should be put in early and proper methods used of crop rotation and preparation of the ground. Mr. Davis is an optimist on North Dakota and like many other farmers is well satisfied with conditions and believes that the future holds continued prosperity for him.

For 1924 Mr. Davis has rented the Krause farm at Apple Creek crossing just east of Bismarck.

HAIL ZONING IS PROPOSED BY OFFICIALS

Would Prescribe Four Zones in State and Apply Different Rates to Each

HIGHER IN THE WEST IS LODGED IN JAIL

Also Proposed to Initiate Law Appropriating Money to Pay 1923 Deficit

Four hail insurance zones would be created in North Dakota, each paying a different rate for insurance, under a proposed initiative law drawn by Commissioner of Insurance S. A. Olmstead and Hail Insurance Department Manager Martin Hagen. The law provides also that the insurance department may obtain $800,000 from the permanent surplus for the purpose of making up the deficit existing in the 1923 hail insurance indemnity assessed to pay losses. The law is tentative, but if the department maintains its views it probably will be submitted to be a vote in the June, 1924, primary instead of in March, as originally suggested.

It is provided that when a levy for indemnity tax is made each of the four districts in the state shall be considered a unit and the rate of the indemnity shall be based upon the following proportions between the districts: First district, 8-12; Second district, 4-12; Third district, 6; Fourth district 7. Every fifth year a report would be made on the experience of losses and recommendations made to the legislature for restricting the state.

District No. 2 would embrace: Towner, Bismarck, Bottineau, Devils Lake, Benson, Pierce, McHenry, Ward, Mountrail, McLean.

District No. 3 would include: Edley, Wells, Sheridan, Griggs, Foster, Stutsman, Kidder, Burleigh, LaMoure, Logan, Emmons, Dickey and McIntosh.

District No. 4 would be composed of: Divide, Williams, McKenzie, Oakes, Mercer, Dunn, Golden, Golden Valley, Morton, Stark, Sioux, Grant, Hettinger, Slope, Adams and Bowman.

The districting, it is stated, is based on past experiences, and the districts are rated in accordance to their hail losses of the past five years.

It is further provided that "if the losses in any one year exceed more than 60 per cent of the risk for the First district, 8-12 per cent for the Second district, 11-30 per cent for the Third district, and 13-18 per cent for the Fourth district, based on the proportions of ratios herebefore provided, in order that the losses may be paid in full, the Commissioner of Insurance may use any moneys in the surplus of the Hail Insurance fund for the risk carried by the department, included in the levy for hail indemnity tax such sum or sums that may be necessary to reimburse the surplus fund for moneys borrowed from such fund, both for the original amount used to pay in full the losses suffered during the year 1923 and for other sums that have been, or may hereafter be borrowed from such fund, according to the provisions of this act. It also is provided the levies may be spread over several years.

Defeated in their purpose, the armed men at the roadside fired more than a dozen shots, but occupants of the fleeing car were unable to say whether they were aimed at the machine or merely fired into the air in an effort to frighten them into stopping the car.

After Kelliher had been passed two possemen in the car were dropped and Sheriff Johnson and Deputy Dyer, a former crusader sworn in for the manhunt, brought Portano to the Beltrami county jail here, locking him in a cell shortly before midnight.

Portano freely admitted his guilt to Sheriff Johnson, that officer said, and indicated that he desired to plead guilty to a charge of first degree murder and accept sentence of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

While the immediate cause of the shooting was Portano's difficulties with Oscar Timmy, a farmer, over the affections of 15 year old Myrtle Sanders, the slayer said he felt, the whole countryside around Kelliher "was against him" and that he could not get "a square deal."

PRIEST GIVES MAN WHO STOLE FOOD, CLOTHES

Plaza, N. D., Nov. 17.—The good bishop of Victor's Hugo's immortal "Les Misérables," who caught the embezzled Jean Valjean seeking from the parish house, and then gave him shelter and food and dismissed him with his blessing, has a modern counterpart in Father Fidelis, O. S. B., local Catholic priest.

Father Fidelis published a notice in a local newspaper stating that he had ample proof of their guilt, but that they might escape conviction in the courts if they would present themselves to him during a certain stated period, admit their guilt and confess their contrition at having committed the offense.

The two men, he has announced, admitted their guilt, and appeared contrite and penitent.

"I am pleased with the result," he says, "but not more than are the courts." He then continued: "The public will not be the wiser as to the identity of the perpetrators of this foolish and disgraceful act, unless the parties should later become entangled in similar acts, in which case I shall place this charge against them also and let the law take its course."

WOODS SLAYER IS SAVED FROM MOB VIOLENCE

Leonard Portano Freely Admits Slaying of Four People in Minnesota

IS LODGED IN JAIL

Tel's Sheriff That He Felt the Whole Country was Against Him, Explaining Act

SLAYER IS SILENT
Beltrami, Minn., Nov. 17.—Leonard Portano, lumber jack of Kelliher, who is held in the county jail here following the killing of four persons in that city Thursday probably will be given a preliminary hearing late today, according to G. M. Torrance, county attorney. He will be tried for murder in the first degree. The hearing will be held before D. H. Fisk, county commissioner.

The Beltrami county grand jury does not convene until February but the county attorney may ask the presiding district judge to call a special session of that body.

Portano, who refused to talk early today, has given no indication whether he will plead guilty when charges are preferred.

Beltrami, Minn., Nov. 17.—Confession slayer of four persons, Leonard Portano was held in the county jail today awaiting preliminary hearing when he is expected to waive examination and plead guilty to a charge of murder in the first degree.

Surprised in a barn two and one-half miles north of Kelliher shortly after 8 o'clock last night, Portano surrendered to Sheriff J. R. Johnson and three possemen without a fight although he was heavily armed and had planned to resist arrest.

Authorities today expressed confidence that no further attempt would be made by men of the Kelliher district to take the law in their own hands and seek to take Portano from the jail here, despite efforts made to take him from the sheriff last night.

Notified that Portano had been caught, a store of men, apparently members of the posse that had hunted him all day, placed a telephone pole across the highway leading into Kelliher, and lined up on either side of the road, seemingly determined to take the law in their own hands. But occupants of the sheriff's car, sighting the pole across the road just as the glaring headlights disclosed the lane of armed men, swung the car to one side of the road, skirting the end of the pole, and dashed on down the road with unhesitating speed.

Dogmen Shots Fired.
Defeated in their purpose, the armed men at the roadside fired more than a dozen shots, but occupants of the fleeing car were unable to say whether they were aimed at the machine or merely fired into the air in an effort to frighten them into stopping the car.

After Kelliher had been passed two possemen in the car were dropped and Sheriff Johnson and Deputy Dyer, a former crusader sworn in for the manhunt, brought Portano to the Beltrami county jail here, locking him in a cell shortly before midnight.

Portano freely admitted his guilt to Sheriff Johnson, that officer said, and indicated that he desired to plead guilty to a charge of first degree murder and accept sentence of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

While the immediate cause of the shooting was Portano's difficulties with Oscar Timmy, a farmer, over the affections of 15 year old Myrtle Sanders, the slayer said he felt, the whole countryside around Kelliher "was against him" and that he could not get "a square deal."

COULTER ASKS U.S. FUNDS FOR STOCK BUYING

Tells President Coolidge Government Could Aid in Change of Farming Method

ON SEED LOAN IDEA

Also Tells President Aid Should be Given College in a Broad Program

Washington, Nov. 17.—Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, bared the problems of the North Dakota farmer before President Calvin Coolidge at a noon day luncheon conference at Washington today, placing before the nation's chief executive proposals for emergency government aid for North Dakota farmers who desire to change their system of farming and give the raising of livestock further emphasis.

The first proposal is that the government provide a revolving loan fund of $3,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, to finance the purchase of a nucleus of breeding stock.

The second proposal is that the government aid the North Dakota agricultural college to put on "an accelerated" educational program in North Dakota, "enabling the college forces to aid the farmer in the building of a permanent profitable and satisfactory type of agriculture."

Dr. Coulter's proposals, he said, are the result of a long series of conferences with farmers, bankers, business men and college officials of the state and they have the support and backing of all who have considered them.

According to the plan advanced by Dr. Coulter the livestock purchasing fund would be loaned to the farmers on the same basis as the ordinary fund granted for federal seed loans. The funds would be loaned upon proof of sound moral risk and proof that the farmer had the necessary feed and equipment to properly handle the stock. Loans would be secured by farmers supported only by the collateral of the livestock he was to purchase and the increase in this stock, the loan to be repaid from the sale of products and increase from this stock. The fund would be disbursed through the Department of Agriculture, working in cooperation with local bankers and committees appointed for the various districts into which the state would be divided for the purpose. Dr. Coulter also suggested to the President that in each community a committee of three would be named who would pass on all applications.

Plan of College
It would be the plan of the Agricultural College officials, Dr. Coulter further told the President that if the two plans were put into effect by Congress to get farmers throughout the state interested in putting in the feed crop next spring which would be needed to care for the stock which they would then be able to purchase next fall with the government loan.

Although President Coolidge's attitude toward the proposal is not definitely known, still it is known that he is vitally concerned in the matter of obtaining relief for the Northwest wheat growers.

OBSERVERS SEE FAINT HOPE OF HOLDING BONDS

Great Britain and France Appear to be Hopelessly Apart Upon Foreign Views

FINAL WORD AWAITED

Further Efforts to Save Entente Will be Put Off Until Monday, Is Indication

Paris, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press)—After a day of uncertainty as to whether the allied council of ambassadors would meet as originally planned to take up the question of the demands to be made upon Germany it was announced shortly before 7 o'clock this evening that the meeting of the council had been postponed until Monday.

The final efforts to save the entente from dissolution will probably be put over until Monday as the British cabinet seemingly is not ready to give the final word to Lord Curzon, British ambassador here, as to its position on the application of further penalties on Germany.

The efforts which will be made mean while to prevent a break are regarded in political circles here as despairing, the French and British governments being too far apart, it is thought, to make an agreement possible.

It appeared this noon that the meeting of the allied council of ambassadors set for today would probably go over until Monday although the French had been insisting on the earliest possible settlement of obtaining resumption of allied military control of Germany. All of the allied ambassadors excepting the British and Ambassador Herzig of the United States who attends the meetings for his government, were held in a waiting room in readiness for a call but it was understood the British ambassador had not received final instructions and that Lord Curzon probably would absent himself if a meeting were called.

Paris Gloomy.

It was regarded as improbable that Premier Poincare would call a meeting today should the British ambassador be unable to participate, although the premier is extremely anxious to have the situation cleared up at the earliest possible moment. He regards the present state of things as very harmful to all the allies, the idea having gained ground that a rupture with Great Britain was imminent and that further delay of a final decision would be likely to develop agitation.

Premier Poincare is ready to make any concession to the London demands, respecting the ex-Crown Prince, it was declared in official circles this morning and the hope was expressed in quarters near the premier that a compromise might be reached. The prospects of saving the entente were regarded as slight in political circles wherever Premier Poincare's optimism was not shared, because it was felt he would remain firm in demanding action to obtain protocol of the allied military control mission in Germany.

AGAINST PENALTIES
London, Nov. 17.—The British government will not accede to the demands of France for punitive measures against Germany, and has notified the British ambassador in Paris to so inform the council of ambassadors.

After the cabinet had deliberated at length yesterday on the reiterated terms of Mr. Poincare, the foreign office telegraphed to Lord Curzon, the British ambassador to France, to inform the council of ambassadors when it resumes its sittings, that Great Britain remains firm against the imposition on Germany of the severe coercive penalties threatened by France.

ITALY SOUNDS WARNING
Rome, Nov. 17.—The Italian government cannot give its approval to any further occupation of German territory, declared Premier Mussolini in a statement today.

"One must have the courage to say that the German people cannot be destroyed," the premier continued. "They are a people which has known civilization and which may tomorrow be an integral part of European civilization."

In the course of a reference to the recent Corfu incident, Signor Mussolini described the league of nations as a "France-British deed" which Italy had a right to question. Italy, he said, did not wish to withdraw from the league but it could not remain a member in the inferior position it held today.

SEVERAL KILLED
Duesseldorf, Nov. 17.—The rioting in the Ruhr is growing. Not only is the situation getting ugly among unemployed but the separatists are encountering violence on the other side of the Rhine. A pitched battle was fought in the village of Hünzburg, near Bonn, yesterday between Northwest wheat growers.

ENTENTE BREAK THREATENED

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL BREAKS UP IN CLASH

ATTORNEYS CLASH

Governor's Case Before Senate Is Interrupted By Action

Oklahoma City, Nov. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton broke up in a tumult today after the executive declaring that he was not receiving a fair trial stalked from the courtroom with his counsel and precipitated a clash between I. T. Sprague, a member of his legal staff, and Tom Anglin, president of the senate.

The Governor's action came after the senate court by a roll call of 230 to 13 had declared that article 17, charging issuance of a large number of special police commissions, was a matter of law and that all previous testimony on that subject be stricken from the records. Claude Nowlin, defense attorney, took exception to the vote and declared the Governor was being "denied equal protection of the law" guaranteed by the state and national constitutions.

Governor Walton then took the floor and declared in a brief statement to the court that he had been sitting at the council table for many days "fighting for my rights and fighting for my home."

The official court record of Governor Walton's statement follows: Mr. Chief Justice and members of this court—I have been sitting here fighting for my rights, my honor and my home for 10 days. I don't here wish to criticize any of those honorable members, some of them no doubt want to have a fair trial, but I have reached the conclusion that I cannot have a fair trial in this court. Knowing that I am withdrawing from this room, I don't wish to stand the humiliation any longer for myself, for my family or my honorable attorneys. You may proceed as you deem best."

The Governor, Mrs. Walton and each member of his legal staff walked from the court and left the courtroom at a row of empty chairs, all that remained of the defense in the impeachment trial.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 17.—Governor J. C. Walton and his entire defense counsel withdrew from the trial today after the Governor had declared before the court that he could not have a fair trial and "could no longer stand the humiliation to me and my attorneys."

BLOOM NAMED PUBLISHER OF LEAGUE PAPER

First Issue Will Be Published From Staats Anzeiger Plant, Bismarck

The first issue of the North Dakota Nonpartisan, weekly organ of the Nonpartisan league to be established, probably will be published early in December, it was said by John H. Bloom, named manager of the paper, before leaving the city today upon the breaking up of the directors' meeting.

Under present plans the paper will be six pages, issued each Wednesday and selling for $2 a year. It will endeavor to carry the more important state news and a limited amount of general news in addition to the political news, Mr. Bloom said.

The directors named Mr. Bloom manager, and he resigned as president of the board of directors, being succeeded by Thomas Maloney of Webster. The board of directors is composed of Maloney, a farmer; S. S. McDonald and Pat Daly, labor leaders; R. W. Frazier, county auditor of Divide county, and Mrs. Minnie D. Craig.

On motion of Mr. McDonald, seconded by Mr. Daly, it was decided to have the paper published from the Staats Anzeiger newspaper plant in Bismarck. There was objection to publishing the paper here made by the Farmer-Labor State Record, local league weekly. Mr. Bloom personally favored Grand Forks as the place of publication. It is said by some that there may yet be a change of plans in this regard.

In the vote for directors, J. H. Bloom, first district, got 179 votes; Mrs. Craig, second district 223 votes; Pat Daly, third district 317 votes; at large, R. W. Frazier, 201; S. S. McDonald, 90. Several others received votes for director at large. Frazier and McDonald, being high. Tom Maloney, who succeeded Mr. Bloom as president, got 62 votes.

WILD GAME TO BE PLENTIFUL NEXT SEASON

Prairie Chickens and Ducks Both Coming Through in Fine Shape, Board Says

PRESERVES DESIGNATED

Right to Hunt Signed Off For 10 Years by Owners—Trappers Must Have License

Encourage by work already done and reports from throughout the state the game and fish commission hopes to see native game life well preserved and perhaps increased in North Dakota. Although the receipts from licenses in the state this year will greatly exceed either of the two previous years, members of the board say that there was an unusually large number of prairie chickens and grouse to live through the hunting season and duck shooting is reported generally unsatisfactory throughout the state, which indicates and that there will be no shortage of ducks. It also is reported to George Dickinson, secretary of the board, that Chinese pheasant flocks are increasing in the state.

W. C. Taylor, president of the board; Dr. H. L. Rice of Beach, vice-president and Mr. Dickinson hope that the sportsmen of the state will cooperate with the board in its efforts to protect the game and fish in the state from unlawful acts. It was stated the board is not seeking protection, but it is emphasized by members that the laws will be enforced and sportsmen are invited to report violations to the board, with assurance that the names of those reporting violations will not be used.

The number of game preserves in the state is increasing. Under the board's plan, sanctioned by law, owners of tract of land, generally less than 160 acres, may designate a game preserve by agreeing to protect the game at all times for 10 years. Members of the owner's family are prevented from carrying a gun on the preserve. The board has completed a reservoir dam at Spiritwood Lake, the main hatchery of the state, and is endeavoring to stock it and stream with fish. The Jamestown Sportsmen's Club gave $1,000 for the hatchery work at Jamestown.

Some difficulty is anticipated with the laws relating to trapping. It was stated by Mr. Dickinson that while skunks, weasels, fox and coyotes are not protected, many farmers are trapping skunk while young and keeping them in captivity until their fur is prime, in violation of law. To do this it is necessary to have a permit from the board, for which a $5 fee is required. Trapper's licenses also must be taken out.

The shooting of muskrats, on which the season is open from Jan. 10 to March 10, is prohibited at any time. It also is provided by law that a trap must not be set in a muskrat house, as this means the extermination of all muskrats in its board members say. Boys under 16 do not need licenses to trap.

C. P. BURNSTAD IS ACQUITTED IN MONTANA

Former "Cattle King of North Dakota" Is Held Not Guilty By a Jury

Chris P. Burnstad of Burnstad, N. D., formerly called "the cattle king of North Dakota," was found not guilty by a jury at Bozeman, Montana, of obtaining money from the St. Paul Cattle and Loan Company in a $30,000 cattle deal, in a verdict returned Thursday night, according to the Bozeman Daily Chronicle.

The verdict was reached after nine hours deliberation. It was charged by the state of Montana that Burnstad represented the cattle and loan company in purchasing cattle in Gallatin county in 1919, that he had orders to draw up to $45,000 for stock, and that Burnstad misrepresented the number of cattle purchased and still owed the company $30,000.

Burnstad, testifying in his own behalf, said he had done business with the concern for 18 years and had borrowed hundreds of thousands of dollars from it. He said that before he started to make deals in Gallatin county, Montana, in 1919 he owed the company $100,000. He received $50,000 additional to buy cattle, he said. Inability to get cash in 1919 and a later slump in prices caused heavy losses, he told the jury. He said some of the money had been sent to North Dakota, but that it was to pay feed bills for the previous year and asserted this was done with consent of officers of the company. Burnstad was represented by George D. Pease, Arthur Atkins of Napoleon and Judge W. S. Lauder of Wapeton.

CO-EDS SPURN BOOZE BOYCOTT

Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—Although 3,000 University of Wisconsin co-eds registered unanimous disapproval of drinking and appealed to federal authorities to take action against intoxication and liquor, they refused to sanction a proposed resolution prohibiting association with any men who drink, at a compulsory meeting held here last night.

"The women of Wisconsin go down on record as opposed to drinking," declared the resolution passed. "They shall sign a petition and present it to the federal authorities in order to have definite action taken against intoxication and its sources in the city of Madison."

"How can we tell if they have been drinking," was the universal chorus when a resolution prohibiting co-eds from dating with men who drink was proposed.

STATES ATTORNEYS ARE CALLED IN CONFERENCE HERE NOV. 27-28

A conference of states attorneys of North Dakota will be held in Bismarck on November 27 and 28 on the call of Attorney General George F. Shafer, he announced today. A formal invitation to the states attorneys to attend the conference will go out from Mr. Shafer's office late today.

Firm in His Belief That This Section of North Dakota Is the Best Place For Poor Man to Start Farming Operations.

Jim Davis in an interview today said that he came to Burleigh County in the fall of 1916. His entire available capital at that time was $200.00 in cash. The next spring he rented a farm near Bismarck, bought one cow and that summer borrowed sufficient money to buy a team of horses and a small amount of second hand machinery. This debt was paid off largely by working out for his neighbors. That fall at a sale he purchased four cows on time. The next year he put in 50 acres of corn and in 1919 commenced raising hogs.

Each year his cattle and hogs have increased in number and he has increased his corn acreage. In 1922 he had 90 acres of corn, sold over $1,000.00 worth of hogs and at the present time he has 50 head of cattle of which 25 will be milk cows next year, has about 10 head of work horses, all the machinery that he needs and plenty of seed and feed and 1500 bushels of corn to sell.

On his personal property, he has a very moderate bank indebtedness and should have no difficulty whatever in paying this next year in full from his surplus cattle and hogs. All this has been accomplished through the results of his work on the farms which he has rented, without having received capital from any outside source, excepting the use of borrowed money from time to time. Mr. Davis believes that North Dakota is all right for the poor man or for any other man who isn't afraid to work. He is diversifying in farming particularly in milk cows, raising hogs and corn is the sure road to success. He does not believe, however, in entirely disregarding the raising of wheat, but says that whatever wheat is seeded should be put in early and proper methods used of crop rotation and preparation of the ground. Mr. Davis is an optimist on North Dakota and like many other farmers is well satisfied with conditions and believes that the future holds continued prosperity for him.

For 1924 Mr. Davis has rented the Krause farm at Apple Creek crossing just east of Bismarck.

HAIL ZONING IS PROPOSED BY OFFICIALS

Would Prescribe Four Zones in State and Apply Different Rates to Each

HIGHER IN THE WEST

Also Proposed to Initiate Law Appropriating Money to Pay 1923 Deficit

Four hail insurance zones would be created in North Dakota, each paying a different rate for insurance, under a proposed initiative law drawn by Commissioner of Insurance S. A. Olness and Hail Insurance Department Manager Martin Hagen. The law provides also that the insurance department may obtain $800,000 from the permanent surplus for the purpose of making up the deficit existing in the 1923 hail insurance indemnity assessed to pay losses. The law is tentative, but if the department maintains its views it probably will be submitted to be a vote in the June, 1924, primary instead of in March, as originally suggested.

It is provided that when a levy for indemnity tax is made each of the four districts in the state shall be considered a unit and the rate of the indemnity shall be based upon the following proportions between the districts: First district, 3-12; Second district, 4-12; Third district, 6; Fourth district 7. Every fifth year a report would be made on the experience of losses and recommendations made to the legislature for readjusting the state.

District No. 2 would embrace: Towner, Rolette, Bottineau, Kennebec, Burke, Benson, Pierce, McHenry, Ward, Mountrail, McLean.

District No. 3 would include: Eddy, Wells, Sheridan, Griggs, Foster, Stutsman, Kidder, Burleigh, LaMoore, Logan, Emmons, Dickey and McIntosh.

District No. 4 would be composed of: Divide, Williams, McKenzie, Oliver, Mercer, Dunn, Billings, Golden Valley, Morton, Stark, Sioux, Grant, Hettinger, Slope, Adams and Bowman.

The districting, it is stated, is based on past experience and the districts are rated in accordance to their hail losses of the past five years.

It is further provided that "if the losses in any one year equals more than 6.59 per cent of the risk for the First district, 8.47 per cent for the Second district, 11.30 per cent for the Third district, and 13.18 per cent for the Fourth district, based on the proportions of ratios hereinbefore provided, in order that the losses may be paid in full, the Commissioner of Insurance may use any moneys in the surplus of the Hail Insurance Fund to pay such difference between the moneys actually obtained by the levy for hail indemnity and the amount actually needed to pay all such legal indemnities for that year, and the Commissioner of Insurance shall in the following or any succeeding year or years when the indemnity for hail losses, as above provided, is not in excess of an average of 10 per cent of the risk carried by the department, include in the levy for hail indemnity tax such sum or sums that may be necessary to reimburse the surplus fund for moneys borrowed from such fund, both for the original amount used to pay in full the losses suffered during the year 1923 and for other sums that have been, or may hereafter be borrowed from such fund, according to the provisions of this act." It also is provided the levies may be spread over several years.

PRIEST GIVES MAN WHO STOLE FOOD, CLOTHES

Plaza, N. D., Nov. 17.—The good bishop of Victor's Hugo's immortal "Les Misérables," he who caught the unrepentant Jean Valjean stealing from the parish house, and then gave him shelter and food and dismissed him with his blessing, has a modern counterpart in Father Fidelis, O. S. B., local Catholic priest.

Father Fidelis published a notice in a local newspaper stating that he had ample proof of their guilt, but that they might escape punishment in the courts if they would present themselves to him during a certain stated period, admit their guilt and confess their contrition at having committed the offense.

The two men, he has announced, presented themselves as suggested, admitted their guilt, and appeared contrite and penitent. "I am pleased with the result," he says, "but not any more than are the culprits." He then continues: "The public will not be the wiser as to the identity of the perpetrators of this foolish and disgraceful act, unless the parties should later become entangled in similar acts, in which case I shall place this charge against them also and let the law take its course."

WOODS SLAYER IS SAVED FROM MOB VIOLENCE

Leonard Portano Freely Admits Slaying of Four People in Minnesota

IS LODGED IN JAIL

Tel's Sheriff That He Felt the Whole Country Was Against Him, Explaining Act

SLAYER IS SILENT
Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 17.—Leonard Portano, lumber jack of Kelliher, who is held in the county jail here following the killing of four persons in that city Thursday probably will be given a preliminary hearing late today, according to G. M. Torrance, county attorney. He will be tried for murder in the first degree. The hearing will be held before D. H. Fisk, court commissioner.

The Beltrami county grand jury does not convene until February but the county attorney may ask the presiding district judge to call a special session of that body.

Portano, who refused to talk early today, has given no indication whether he will plead guilty when charges are preferred.

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 17.—Confessed slayer of four persons, Leonard Portano was held in the county jail today awaiting preliminary hearing when he is expected to waive examination and plead guilty to a charge of murder in the first degree.

Surprised in a barn two and one-half miles north of Kelliher shortly after 8 o'clock last night, Portano surrendered to Sheriff J. R. Johnson and three policemen without a fight although he was heavily armed and had planned to resist arrest.

Authorities today expressed confidence that no further attempt would be made by men of the Kelliher district to take the law in their own hands and seek to take Portano from the jail before, despite an attempt to dash on down the road with unhesitating speed.

Notified that Portano had been caught, a store of men, apparently members of the posse that had hunted him all day, placed a telephone pole across the highway leading into Kelliher, and lined up on either side of the road, seemingly determined to take the law in their own hands.

But occupants of the sheriff's car, sighting the pole across the road just as the glaring headlights disclosed the lane of armed men, swung the car to one side of the road, skirting the edge of the pole, and dashed on down the road with unhesitating speed.

Dozen Shots Fired.
Defeated in their purpose, the armed men at the roadside fired more than a dozen shots, but occupants of the fleeing car were unable to say whether they were aimed at the machine or merely fired into the air in an effort to frighten them into stopping the car.

After Kelliher had been passed two possemen in the car were dropped and Sheriff Johnson and Deputy Dan Rose, a timer cruiser sworn in for the manhunt, brought Portano to the Beltrami county jail here, locking him in a cell shortly before midnight.

Portano freely admitted his guilt to Sheriff Johnson, that officer said, and indicated that he desired to plead guilty to a charge of first degree murder and accept sentence of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

While the immediate cause of the shooting was Portano's difficulties with Oscar Timmy, a farmer, over the affections of 15 year old Myrtle Sanders, the slayer said he felt the whole countryside around Kelliher "was against him" and that he could not get "a square deal."

COULTER ASKS U.S. FUNDS FOR STOCK BUYING

Tells President Coolidge Government Could Aid in Change of Farming Method

ON SEED LOAN IDEA

Also Tells President Aid Should Be Given College in a Broad Program

Washington, Nov. 17.—Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, bared the problems of the North Dakota farmer before President Calvin Coolidge at a noon day luncheon conference at Washington today, placing before the nation's chief executive proposals for emergency government aid for North Dakota farmers who desire to change their system of farming and to give the raising of livestock further emphasis.

The first proposal is that the government provide a revolving loan fund of $3,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, to finance the purchase of a nucleus of breeding stock.

The second proposal is that the government aid the North Dakota agricultural college to put on "an accelerated" educational program in North Dakota, "enabling" the college forces to aid the farmers in the up-building of a permanent profitable and satisfying type of agriculture.

Dr. Coulter's proposals, he said, are the result of a long series of conferences with farmers, bankers, business men and college officials of the state and they have the support and backing of all who have considered them.

According to the plan advanced by Dr. Coulter the livestock purchasing fund would be loaned to the farmers on the same basis and they could be secured by federal seed loans. The funds would be loaned upon proof of sound moral risk and proof that the farmer had the necessary feed and equipment to properly handle the stock. Loans would be secured by farmers supported only by the collateral of the livestock he was to purchase and the increase in this stock, the loan to be repaid from the sale of products and increase from this stock. The fund would be disbursed through the Department of Agriculture, working in cooperation with local bankers and committees appointed for the various districts into which the state would be divided.

It would be the plan of the Agricultural College officials, Dr. Coulter further told the President, that if the two plans were put into effect by Congress to get farmers throughout the state interested in putting in the feed crop next spring which would be needed to care for the stock which they would then be able to purchase next fall with the government loan.

Although President Coolidge's attitude toward the proposal is not definitely known, still it is known that he is vitally concerned in the matter of obtaining relief for the Northwest wheat growers.

OBSERVERS SEE FAINT HOPE OF HOLDING BONDS

Great Britain and France Appear to be Hopelessly Apart Upon Foreign Views

FINAL WORD AWAITED

Further Efforts to Save Entente Will be Put Off Until Monday, Is Indication

Paris, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press)—After a day of uncertainty as to whether the allied council of ambassadors would meet as originally planned to take up the question of demands to be made upon Germany it was announced shortly before 7 o'clock this evening that the meeting of the council had been postponed until Monday.

Paris, Nov. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The final efforts to save the entente from dissolution will probably be put over until Monday as the British cabinet seemingly is not ready to give the final word to Lord Crewe, British ambassador here, as to its position on the application of further penalties on Germany.

The efforts which will be made mean while to prevent a break are regarded in political circles here as depending on the French and British governments being too far apart, it is thought, to make an agreement possible.

It appeared this noon that the meeting of the allied council of ambassadors set for today would probably go over until Monday although the French had been insisting on the earliest possible settlement of obtaining resumption of allied military control of Germany. All of the allied ambassadors excepting the British and Ambassador Herrick of the United States who attends the meetings for his government were holding themselves in readiness for a call but it was understood the British ambassador had not received final instructions and that Lord Crewe probably would absent himself if a meeting were called.

Paris Gloomy.

It was regarded as improbable that Premier Poincare would call a meeting today should the British ambassador be unable to participate although the premier is extremely anxious to have the situation cleared up at the earliest possible moment. He regards the present state of things as very harmful to all the allies, the idea having gained ground that a rupture with Great Britain was imminent and that further delay of a final decision would be likely to develop agitation.

Premier Poincare is ready to make any concession to the London delegates respecting the ex-Crown Prince, it was declared in official circles this morning and the hope was expressed in quarters near the premier that a compromise might be reached. The prospects of saving the entente were regarded as slight in political circles wherever Premier Poincare's optimism was not shared, because it was felt he would remain firm in demanding action to obtain protection for the allied military control mission in Germany.

AGAINST PENALTIES
London, Nov. 17.—The British government will not give its approval to any further occupation of German territory, declared Premier Mussolini, in the senate last night.

After the cabinet had deliberated at length yesterday on the reiterated terms of M. Poincare, the foreign office telegraphed to France, to inform the British ambassador in Paris to so inform the council of ambassadors.

Italy Sounds Warning
Rome, Nov. 17.—"The Italian government cannot give its approval to any further occupation of German territory," declared Premier Mussolini, in the senate last night.

"One must have the courage to say that the German people cannot be destroyed," the premier continued. "They are a people which has known civilization and which may tomorrow be an integral part of European civilization."

In the course of a reference to the recent Corfu incident, Signor Mussolini described the league of nations as a "France-British duet" in which Italy had an inferior position. Italy, he said, did not wish to withdraw from the league, but it could not remain a member in the inferior position it held today.

Workers Who Will Offer Tickets for Riccardo Martin Concert in Meeting

HIS SINGING PRAISED

An enthusiastic meeting was held in the McKenzie hotel at noon today by many business men who agreed to sell tickets for the Riccardo Martin concert to be given on November 23. F. L. Conklin, chairman of the committee to sell tickets, presided. He explained that the concert was not a profit-making venture, but that people of Bismarck were being given an opportunity to hear one of the greatest singers at half or less than they would pay to hear him elsewhere. While Mr. Martin is brought here primarily for the teachers convention he will give a concert also for people of Bismarck and the surrounding territory.

Mrs. V. J. LaRose was present and said that she had heard Mr. Martin in the east, when the price for hearing him was $5 for each person. She said she heard Caruso the night before she heard Mr. Martin and really enjoyed Mr. Martin's singing more than that of the great Caruso. She said it was a wonderful opportunity for people of this vicinity to hear Mr. Martin and predicted that the city Auditorium would not hold nearly all the people who would want to hear him.

Judge Christianson spoke briefly, explaining the action of the teachers convention entertainment committee in obtaining the services of Mr. Martin and Count Tolstoy as a compliment to the teachers.

Mr. Conklin emphasized that the tickets were not going out to sell tickets to people who would buy them simply because they were public spirited, but because they would gain a rare treat at low cost.

GRANGE IDEAS ARE PRAISED

President Coolidge Says it Has Survived All Trials

Pittsburgh, Nov. 16.—The National Grange has continued to flourish, because it has kept constantly in mind the thought of the farm as a home, President Coolidge declared in a message read by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace before the national grange meeting last night. The president in his message characterized the grange as "one farm organization which has survived through many periods of adversity and prosperity," and continued:

"It seems to me that one of the reasons why the grange has continued to flourish is that it has kept constantly in mind the thought of the farm as a home, and it represented in its membership by the various members of that home. It has recognized the need of a full home life and has never failed to present these as things most to be desired. At the same time, it has recognized the fact that a satisfactory home life and rural life must be based upon reasonable reward for labor on the farm."

Secretary Wallace followed the reading of President Coolidge's statement with a discussion of the work of the department of agriculture, describing the development of an adequate marketing service, affording prompt world news of crop prospects, and production, and explained the aid given the farmers co-operative marketing movement.

St. Paul, Nov. 16.—The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission today filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission requesting the suspension and investigation of a new tariff which becomes effective Dec. 6 on the Northern Pacific railroad from the North Dakota field to Minnesota and South Dakota stations.

The new tariff, which will increase the tariff from 25 to 60 per cent over the present rates is unjustified and will work an unwarranted hardship on Minnesota consumers, the commission claims in its petition.

The tariff has already been suspended until April 4.

Secretary Hughes has stipulated that the proposed committee of international financial experts to investigate Germany's resources must not bring up the question of inter-allied debts. On the other hand, France insists that the allied debts are at the root of the issue and there is a body of public opinion in that country that evidently expects America to cancel its debt to France. # MARTIN NEW TENOR TYPE

He Is "Man's Man," Not Old-Style Temperamental Artist

The announcement that Riccardo Martin, the great American tenor is due for a recital in Bismarck this season, should be more than welcome. Surely this great singer needs no formal introduction. Not only in America has he won success with the greatest opera companies, including the Metropolitan, Chicago and Boston organizations, but Italy, Germany, England and Latin America all know him as one of the greatest tenors of his day. Many of the New York critics call him "The American Caruso," and on more than one occasion he was called in to take the life of Riccardo Martin is one that every aspiring student can follow with profit. First of all he is a student and then not at the theater or on tour one will find him studying some new opera or song. He is a great reader of politics and travel and never fails to keep well versed upon all subjects of the day. He is also an excellent linguist. Whatever Riccardo Martin does, he does well. In fact he does thoroughly. He never skims through anything, or takes chances on "getting away with it." He is an artist to the finger tips, but not one of those persons who continually cry "my art is my life." No, Mr. Martin is a man's man; a tenor who likes to root at a baseball game and witness a boxing exhibition. He is a singer by choice, but an American of old school by birth. His coming to Bismarck this season means a true musical event for the American tenor ranks only with the best and the best are indeed few.

Americans Use Better English in Letters and Papers

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 17.—The English of sales letters has reached standard in advertising and in journalism, according to Mrs. Alta Quinn Saunders, director of Business English work at the University of Illinois. "I do not maintain that good English is the one test of a good letter, but that it is the most important element of a good letter," Mrs. Saunders asserts. "It is my contention that it is as important to the good letter as is any other element, and that a letter cannot be a good letter until good English is combined with a business mind, good character, pleasing personality, and knowledge of human nature in getting results. "My definition of good English does not include slang, colloquialisms, or slovenly English sometimes used in letters that get results, but the English that conforms to the way writers of English ordinarily write and the English used in successful letters. This means the best language of daily life, that which is adapted to all sections of the country, and to good taste. It means English appropriate to the occasion, the subject matter, and the person.

"The categories of bad English are: Disregard of the elementary rules of grammar; inaccuracies of expression; stereotyped diction, and inflated diction. The main concerns of good English are: Good structure of the whole composition, paragraphs and sentences, and simple, plain, direct and appropriate language; English that is moral, social and artistic. "Awkwardness and crudities are disappearing. There is growing up a free, plain, tradesman-like style becoming to the nature of its subject matter. There is a noticeable growth in the artistic quality of the descriptive and narrative parts of sales letters."

JACKIE COOGAN PICTURE COMES

With more than $400,000 spent on the construction of the sets alone, Jackie Coogan's latest picture, "Long Live the King," at the Capitol theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, his first under the $1,500,000 Metro contract which was given him recently, ought to fulfill all the advance reports which were broadcasted throughout the country at the time this picture was in the making in Hollywood. That it is an unusually lavish and beautiful production is substantiated by the fact that it contains several exact duplications of famous European structures. One is of the famous castle of Neuschwanstein in Bulgaria, a landmark in European architecture, another of the world-renowned opera house at Dresden, Germany, and still another of the beautiful Cathedral in Herzegovina, the shrine of millions of European visitors. A special research staff sailed from Europe for Hollywood at the time production was begun with exact designs and plans for the duplication of these famous structures. "Long Live the King" is an adaptation of Mary Roberts Rinehart's famous novel of the same name. It was directed by Victor Schertzinger from the continuity by C. Gardner Sullivan and Ege Unsell and photographed by Frank Good and Robert Martin. William Van Brincken was research expert and J. J. Hughes art director. The picture was produced for Metro under the personal supervision of Jack Coogan, Sr.

WHEAT SLUMPS AT OPENING

Indications of Renewed Spreading Between Chicago and Winnipeg

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Wheat averaged a little lower today in the early dealings with sellers in a majority and with most of the buying confined to shorts. The fact, however, that at least for the time being a split between France and England had been averted was a steady influence. The opening which varied from unchanged to 3-5 cents lower with Dec. $1.01 1-2 to $1.01 3-4 and May $1.07 1-2 to $1.07 3-4 was followed by a slight rally and then by a moderate general downturn.

A subsequently weak-end adjustment of trade helped make prices a little firmer. Close steady, at same as yesterday's finish to a shade decline, with Dec. $1.01 3-4 to $1.01 3-4 to 7-8 and May $1.07 1-4 to $1.07 3-8.

TRUE BROTHERLY LOVE

All the way from distant Italy Michele Cradelle, left, and Vincenzo Cradelle, right, have come in an effort to save their brother, Peter, from the gallows. He's in Cook county jail, Chicago, awaiting execution, along with his wife, for the murder of Mrs. Cradelle's first husband. The brothers read of his plight in Italian newspapers and immediately got in touch with Ambassador Child in Rome. Through him, the gates at Ellis island were thrown open to them. Meanwhile, a stay was granted Peter.

HUNDREDS OF DUCKS DYING

Esmond, N. D., Nov. 17.—Hundreds of ducks and geese die annually at Cranberry lake, four miles north of here. The water in Cranberry lake is strongly impregnated with sodium sulphate. When the heavy frosts come in, the sodium sulphate (salt) comes to the top and crystallizes. At this time of the year, this becomes a great haven for the wild game as the birds are fond of salt. However, the salt clings to their feathers, and hundreds are made helpless and soon die.

Reports reaching here indicate that wagonloads of helpless birds have been picked up by the farmers residing near Cranberry lake this fall.

PANSIES BLOOM IN NO. DAKOTA

Flowers still bloom in North Dakota, on the 17th of November. Three little pansies, in full bloom, are left in a flower bed at the home of Miss Jessie Rapp, 517 Sixth St. Under the influence of the warm November sun they have remained bright and fresh for many days.

Being without a light, he stepped into the deep hole which he twelve feet and had about three feet of water in it. He struck one of the wooden braces on the point of his chin and fell into the water being rescued by one of his fellow workmen at the foot of the shaft.

Two 'Cello Solos by Hugo Kreider—Galli-Curci Interprets Victor Herbert

Another Fritz Kreisler's "Apple Blossom" is the source of the two splendid melodies which Hugo Kreider interprets this week. "Letter Song" is obviously Viennese, as is the second number, "I'm in Love." Hugo is accompanied at the piano by Fritz, a splendid accompanist. Incidentally, Kreider is in a pretty little city, St. Albert, Campbell and Henry Bismarck on a new one, back-to-back with Pearlless Quartet singing, "Aloha! Blacksheep." Of course, the name of the city you take for granted, until you discover that it's in Georgia.

As a lyric exponent of common place life Henry Burr stands out, and for those who draw comfort from such music there is another record of his this week, "You Can't Make a Fool Out of Me," with some unexpected spoken lines, heavy with bitter scorn. "Pal of My Dreams" by Charles Hart is sung with fervor.

Old-fashioned Fiddle Dances

Examples of true American music are two old-fashioned dance numbers this week by a pair of real cowboy fiddlers, Henry C. Gilmann and A. C. (Eck) Robertson. They have made previous records in this type, and as first-hand exponents of this breakdown, "Yuba," school of American song, personally cannot hear too many of them. "Turkey in the Straw" is an American ballad in its full classic sense, whether the words recall the plumed cavalier boy or of Tom Turkey and his mother-in-law. "Ragtime Rags" in which Eck Robertson solos, is, in similar vein. They play without accompaniment, with a occasional "second part" in double-dopa. Because we are particularly partial to this type of music, we were made additionally happy this week to find two more of our favorites on the records, sung by one of our particularly favorite male quartets, "The Watrous Trio," and

ELKS GIVE AID TO CHARITABLE WORK IN CITY

Fall Initiation Brings Big Crowd Out to Hall—Six Are Taken In

Bismarck lodge No. 1199, Elks, in a business meeting tonight which preceded initiation ceremonies, contributed more than $100 for charitable purposes outside of the regular work of the lodge in this direction. Sixty dollars was voted by the lodge toward meeting a deficit incurred by the Children's Odds Commission in investigating child conditions in the state on which investigation legislation was based which created the child welfare department of the state board of administration. A collection of $50 also was taken up to be turned over to Miss Cashel, child welfare worker, to be used in purchasing clothes and other necessities for poor children as the sees fit.

The initiation ceremony first of the fall season, brought out a large attendance. Those initiated were John W. Ackerman, Ashley; County Commissioner Axel Soder, Wingo; John Bonak, Harry Paul, E. E. Farg, and L. J. Johnson, all of Bismarck. Luncheon was served.

Supreme Court

FROM BURLEIGH COUNTY

Ole Waane, Plaintiff-Respondent.

M. B. Finseth, Defendant-Appellant.

SYLLABUS:

1. Ordinarily, one who buys property has a right implicitly to rely upon representations of the seller; and, if they were false and made with intent to deceive the purchaser, the seller will not be allowed to urge that the buyer, by investigation, could have discovered their falsity. Fargo Gas & Coke Co. v. Fargo Gas & Electric Co., 4 N. D. 219, 59 N. W. 1066, followed.

2. Certain contentions advanced by the defendant to the effect that plaintiff has waived his right of action for fraud and deceit considered, and for reasons stated in the opinion held not well founded.

3. A party who has been induced to purchase property by means of certain false and fraudulent representations by the seller, on discovery of the fraud, has the option of rescinding or affirming the transaction.

4. In case of affirmance, he retains what he has received, and is entitled to be compensated for the damages he has sustained by the false representations.

5. Where the defrauded party affirms the transaction and brings an action to recover damages for the deception practiced upon him in inducing him to purchase the property, the measure of his damages in the absence of a claim for special or exemplary damages, is the difference in value between what was received and what would have been received had the representations been true.

6. Where a certain theory as to the measure of damages or the amount of recovery is accepted or acted upon by the parties in the trial court as the proper one, it must be adhered to in the appellate court whether it is correct or not.

Appeal from the District Court of Burleigh County. Coffey, J. Defendant appeals from a judgment and from an order denying his motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial.

WHEAT SLUMPS AT OPENING

Indications of Renewed Spreading Between Chicago and Winnipeg

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Wheat averaged a little lower today in the early dealings with sellers in a majority and with most of the buying confined to shorts. The fact, however, that at least for the time being a split between France and England had been averted was a steady influence. A subsequently week-end adjustments of trade helped make prices a little firmer. Close steady, at same as yesterday's finish to a shade decline, with Dec. $1.01 3-4 to $1.01 3-4 to 7-8 and May $1.07 1-4 to $1.07 3-8.

TRUE BROTHERLY LOVE

All the way from distant Italy Michele Crudelle, left, and Vincenzo Crudelle, right, have come in an effort to save their brother, Peter, from the gallows. He is in Cook county jail, Chicago, awaiting execution along with his wife, for the murder of Mrs. Crudelle's first husband. The brothers read of his plight in Italian newspapers and immediately got in touch with Ambassador Child in Rome. Through him, the gates at Ellis Island were thrown open to them. Meanwhile, a stay was granted Peter.

HUNDREDS OF DUCKS DYING

Esmond, N. D., Nov. 17.—Hundreds of ducks and geese die annually at Cranberry lake, four miles north of here. The water in Cranberry lake is strongly impregnated with sodium sulphate. When the heavy frosts come in, the sodium sulphate (salt) comes to the top and crystallizes. At this time of the year, this becomes a great haven for the wild game as the birds are fond of salt. However, the salt clings to their feathers, and hundreds are made helpless and soon die.

Reports reaching here indicate that wagonloads of helpless birds have been picked up by the farmers residing near Cranberry lake this fall.

PANSIES BLOOM IN NO. DAKOTA

Flowers still bloom in North Dakota, on the 17th of November. Three little pansies, in full bloom, are left in a flower bed at the home of Miss Jessie Ramp, 517 Sixth St. Under the influence of the warm November sun they have remained bright and fresh for many days.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Wilton, Nov. 17.—DeWitt Flinn is suffering with a bruised jaw, several teeth being knocked out and others loosened as the result of a fall into a pump at the bottom of the shaft of The Washburn Lignite Coal Company's mine last Thursday. Being without a light, he stepped into the deep hole which is twelve by twelve and had about three feet of water in it. He struck one of the wooden braces on the point of his chin and fell into the water being rescued by one of his fellow workmen at the foot of the shaft.

Brother Fritz Kreiser's "Apple Blossoms" is the source of the two sprightly melodies which Hugo Kreiser records this week. "Letter Song" is obviously Viennese, as is the second number, "I'm in Love." Hugo is accompanied at the piano by Fritz, a splendid accompanist, incidentally. Sentiment in every degree pervades the new records this week, two eminent examples of which are Victor Herbert's "A Kiss in the Dark" and "Kiss Me Again," sung by Amelia Galli-Curci. If you are accustomed to thinking of this great mistress of coloratura as exclusively an interpreter of foreign composers, hear what she does with these melodious and emotional numbers composed within our shores.

Old-fashioned Fiddle Dances

Examples of true American minstrelsy are two old-fashioned fiddle numbers this week by a pair of real cowboy dancers, Henry O. Gilliland and A. C. (Eck) Robertson. They have made previous records in this type, and as first-hand exponents of this breakdown, "Juba," a school of American song, personally cannot hear too many of them. "Turkey in the Straw" is an American ballad in its full classic sense, whether the words recite of the plucky miller boy or of Tom Turkey and his mother-in-law. "Rocking Chair" is an American song, personally cannot hear too many of them. ## RENOUNCED ALL CROWN RIGHT

German Charge d' Affaires Says Crown Prince Gave Up Any Claim

Paris, Nov. 17.—(By the A. P.)—While the ambassadors council was in conference yesterday the German charge d' affaires, Dr. Von Hoesch called at the foreign office by order of his government to inform M. de LaRocca, director of the political affairs, exactly what had been done with regard to the former German Crown Prince Frederick William. Dr. Von Hoesch declared William had repeatedly applied for permission to return to Germany and in October the cabinet, which then included the royalists, saw no reason to refuse his request in view of the fact that the former Crown Prince had renounced all rights to the crown.

EARLY SETTLER DIES

Pembina, N. D., Nov. 17.—Mrs. John H. Hughes, 86, who settled with her husband in Pembina county in 1874 died at her farm home near here. When the couple settled in this county, Pembina was their nearest trading point, and they made their trips to town by ox team. From the woods and prairies along the Pembina river they built a fine home. Mrs. Hughes was active in church work and is recalled by early settlers as doing much for the advancement of the community. Eight children survive. She also leaves 43 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren.

ELKS GIVE AID TO CHARITABLE WORK IN CITY

Fall Initiation Brings Big Crowd Out to Hall—Six Are Taken In

Bismarck lodge No. 1199, Elks, in a business meeting last night which preceded initiation ceremonies, contributed more than $100 for charitable purposes outside of the regular work of the lodge in this direction. Sixty dollars was voted by the lodge toward meeting a deficit incurred by the Children's Ode Commission in investigating child conditions in the state on which investigation legislation was based which created the child welfare department of the state board of administration. A collection of $50 also was taken up to be turned over to Miss Cashel, child welfare worker, to be used in purchasing clothes and other necessities for poor children as she sees fit.

The initiation ceremony first of the fall season, brought out a large attendance. Those initiated were John W. Ackerman, Ashley; County Commissioner Axel Soder, Wing; John Bozak, Harry Paul, E. A. Pettis and L. W. Johnson all of Bismarck. Luncheon was served.

Supreme Court

FROM BURLEIGH COUNTY
Ole Warne, Plaintiff-Respondent, vs. M. B. Finseth, Defendant-Appellant.

SYLLABUS:
1. Ordinarily, one who buys property has a right implicitly to rely upon representations of the seller; and, if they were false and made with intent to deceive the purchaser, the seller will not be allowed to urge that the buyer, by investigation, could have discovered their falsity. Fargo Gas & Coke Co. v. Fargo Gas & Electric Co., 4 N. D. 219, 59 N. W. 1006, followed.

2. Certain contentions advanced by the defendant to the effect that plaintiff has waived his right of action for fraud and deceit considered, and for reasons stated in the opinion held not well founded.

3. A party who has been induced to purchase property by means of certain false and fraudulent representations by the seller, on discovery of the fraud, has the option of rescinding or affirming the transaction. 4. In case of affirmation, he retains what he has received, and is entitled to be compensated for the damages he has sustained by the false representations.

5. Where the defrauded party affirms the transaction and brings an action to recover damages for the deception practiced upon him in inducing him to purchase the property, the measure of his damages, in the absence of a claim for special or exemplary damages, is the difference in value between what was received and what would have been received had the representations been true.

6. Where a certain theory as to the measure of damages or the amount of recovery is accepted or acted upon by the parties in the trial court as the proper one, it must be adhered to in the appellate court whether it is correct or not.

Appeal from the District Court of Burleigh County, Coffey, J. Defendant appeals from a judgment and from an order denying his motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial.

SYLLABUS:
In an action to recover from a partnership upon an account for lumber sold, where the issue is presented whether the lumber was sold upon the credit of the partnership or upon an individual account and responsibility, and where the evidence of a stranger to the proceedings, a retail merchant, was received to the effect that he had extended credit to the partnership but had charged upon his books some goods sold to an individual account and that he never had any knowledge of any change in the partnership relation, it is held, for reasons stated in the opinion,—

(1) That the evidence in the record was sufficient to support the verdict of the jury in favor of a partnership liability;

(2) That the evidence of the retail merchant was inadmissible and irrelevant and its admission constituted prejudicial error.

In District Court, Cass County, Cole, J. Action to recover against a partnership upon an account for lumber sold. From a judgment in plaintiff's favor and from an order denying judgment non obstante or, in the alternative, for a new trial, defendants have appealed.

The Workmen's Compensation Bureau has taken under consideration until November 24 the protest against the original award of approximately $2,900 made to B. H. Protest was made against the award in the name of Emmons county, the county being represented by States Attorney Coventry and Alfred Zuger of Bismarck.

MARTIN NEW TENOR TYPE

He Is "Man's Man," Not Old Style Temperamental Artist

The announcement that Riccardo Martin, the great American tenor is due for a recital in Bismarck this season, should be more than welcome. Surely this great singer needs no formal introduction. Not only in America has he won success with the greatest opera companies, including the Metropolitan, Chicago and Boston organizations, but Italy, Germany, England and Latin America all know him as one of the greatest tenors of his day. Many of the New York critics call him "The American Caruso," and on more than one occasion he was called in to take the life of Riccardo Martin. The musical life of Riccardo Martin is one that every aspiring student can follow with profit. First of all he is a student and when not at the theater or on tour he will find him studying some new opera or song. He is a great reader of politics and travel and never fails to keep well versed upon all subjects of the day. He is also an excellent linguist. Whatever Riccardo Martin does, he does well. In fact he does thoroughly. He never skims through anything, or takes chances on "getting away with it." He is an artist to the finger tips, but not one of those persons, who continually cries "my art is my life." No, Mr. Martin is a man's man; a tenor who likes to root at a baseball game and witness a boxing exhibition. He is a singer by choice, but an American of old school by birth. His coming to Bismarck this season means a special event for the American tenor ranks only with the best and the best are indeed few.

Americans Use Better English in Letters and Papers

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 17.—The English of this letter has reached standard in advertising and in journalism, according to Mrs. Alta Gwin Saunders, director of Business English work at the University of Illinois. "I do not maintain that good English is the one sort of a good letter, but that it is the most important element of a good letter," Mrs. Saunders asserts. "It is my contention that it is as important to the good letter as any other element, and that a letter cannot be a good letter unless good English is combined with a business mind. Good character, pleasing personality, and knowledge of human nature in getting results. My definition of good English does not include slang, colloquialisms, or starchy English sometimes used in letters that get results, but the English that conforms to the way writers of English ordinarily write and the English used in successful letters. This means the best language of daily life, that which is adapted to all sections of the country, and to good taste. It means English appropriate to the occasion, the subject matter, and the person."

JACKIE COOGAN PICTURE COMES

With more than $400,000 spent on the construction of the sets alone, Jackie Coogan's latest picture, "Long Live the King," at the Capitol theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, his first under the $1,500,000 Metro contract which was given him recently, ought to fulfill all the advance reports which were broadcast throughout the country at the time this picture was in the making in Hollywood.

That it is an unusually lavish and beautiful production is substantiated by the fact that it contains several exact duplications of famous European structures. One is of the famous castle of Neuschwanstein in Bavaria, a landmark in European architecture, another of the world-renowned opera house at Dresden, Germany, and still another of the beautiful Cathedral in Barcelona, the shrine of millions of European visitors. A special research staff called from Europe for Hollywood at the time production was begun with exact designs and plans for the duplication of these famous structures.

"Long Live the King" is an adaptation of Mary Roberts Rinehart's famous novel of the same name. It was directed by Victor Scharif from the community by C. Gardner Sullivan and Ege Unsell and photographed by Frank Good and Robert Martin. William Van Brinkman was research expert and J. J. Hughes art director. The picture was produced for Metro under the personal supervision of Jack Coogan, Sr.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

NON-RESIDENT STUDENTS
Students who come to attend the Bismarck schools from points outside the city and are compelled to work in homes for their board and room need the proper environment if their education is to be successful. As is the case in cities of this size, many students come here for their education and are placed in homes where some interest should be shown in their general welfare.

The community council can do a good work in securing for these students the advantages of a good home. Their hours of work, study and recreation should be properly supervised. They are not on the same footing nor can they be given the same freedom as is accorded the girl in general domestic work who has reached the age of maturity. In every instance these students are of tender years and should not be left to their own devices. They need some mothering at times for they necessarily have lonesome hours when they miss home influences. Here is a fine field for earnest constructive work that will bring gratifying returns and in nearly all instances sincere gratitude.

POCKETBOOK NEWS
How about business conditions? Are times going to be good or bad? Well, the iron industry looks encouraging. And experts for years have considered pig iron production a weathervane of general business. It's supposed to rise or fall six months ahead of other lines.

Iron output in October was a trifle more than in September, a customary seasonal government. October production was quite a bit less than in May, the record month, but production last spring was so excessively big that a reaction was inevitable.

October output of pig iron averaged over 101,000 tons a day. In October, 1914, the average was not much more than half as big. As long as our basic or key industry is stepping it off nearly twice as fast as before the war, there's no excuse for pessimism.

Steel industry not only is busy, it's preparing to continue so. This year's shipments of iron ore down the Great Lakes, up to the first of November, exceeded 54 million tons. This compares with about 39 million tons in the corresponding period of last year.

If that doesn't shake the blues, try this remedy: In October 360,000 passenger autos and trucks were manufactured, compared with only 239,191 in October, 1922.

Railroads continue hauling record-breaking amounts of freight. So far this year they have loaded and moved 416 cars of freight for each 353 cars in the corresponding period of 1922 and 328 cars in 1921.

Business men should clip that last paragraph and past it on their desks.

THE CALL
Do animals communicate with each other by their own kind of radio? There's no other way to explain this mysterious love call of the caribou, a species of reindeer found in the Far North.

The caribou sexes never mingle except during mating season. At other times of the year, the males wander in great herds in the Yukon and Alaska. Far away to the east, over toward the Hudson Bay country, roam the females.

As winter approaches, the females begin looking westward, the males eastward. Though separated by hundreds of miles, the mating call passes between them by some instinct like radio. The herds gallop until they meet, to mingle during the mating and rearing season, thereafter to separate until next year.

IDEAL HOME A QUIET ONE
Sound-proof apartment houses are close at hand. Boston is building several, walls so deadened that a piano or fiddle cannot be heard in neighbor apartments. Joseph Pulitzer had a sound-proof room in his Bar Harbor home.

In various ways man tries to escape from the prison (civilization) in which he has walled himself. Discard noise is part of the prison, destroying nervous systems. Sound-proof home would be the next best bet to living a natural life in the open.

SCHOOL SHORTAGE
New York City has 955,000 pupils in its schools, and 377,000 of them are on part time or double shifts because of the shortage of school buildings and seats.

It's a rare city that doesn't have a similar situation. One reason is that cities try to build monumental school buildings when wooden structures, such as were used in army training camps, would serve just as well—temporarily, at least—until our civilization figured out how to get as many seats in school houses as it provides for movie audiences without difficulty.

LIFE IS MECHANICAL
The Southern Pacific contracts for 100 million dollars worth of insurance for its employees.

You observe here now "the system" is steadily making life a cut-and-dried proposition. Things that used to be "up to the individual" now are decided for him. Probably it's all for the best. But life in America is becoming as mechanical as an alarm clock. And that isn't for the best, because it destroys initiative by lessening the individual's sense of responsibility.

MODERN HOME
The modern home has become merely a place in which to sleep, laments Rev. Dr. Caleb R. Stetson of New York. "We no longer live in homes. We live in rooms. The interests of the members of the family are mostly outside the walls of the apartment we call home. Home life is nearly impossible in modern industrialized society."
Granted. What's responsible? Many things. The chief one is the auto.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

One day Billy Goat's cousin Billy Beard was talking to Dummy Donkey's cousin, Harry Hee-Haw, down in Dixie Land.

"I'm as strong as a lion," boasted Billy Beard. "It's all in my head, too. Most people are weak in their heads, but I'm so strong I could knock over a school house."

"You could, could you?" brayed Harry Hee-Haw, showing his teeth in his contempt. "If you can find anything in the world stronger than my heels, please let me know and I'll give you a bouquet. I could kick over a church!"

"Ma! I know what kind of a bouquet you would give me," mocked Billy. "A bouquet of thistles. You eat enough thistles to sharpen every tooth about you but your wits, but as for them, they are as dull as railroad tracks or you'd never say that your heels were stronger than my head."

So those two silly things went on arguing. Nancy and Nick were listening and they laughed and laughed. "They are exactly like their cousins in Squeaky-Moo Land," said Nick. "I guess donkeys and goats are the same everywhere."

Pretty soon Mister Farmer came along and caught Harry Hee-Haw and led him to the barn. "Now, son, I'm going to hitch you to my light wagon and drive you to market with a load of sweet potatoes," he said. "And mind you, sir, no balking today. If your heels are as strong as Billy's, see how you get along. You can kick behind you on the way. Want a ride, young 'uns?"

Nanck and Nick hopped up and away they all drove. Harry Hee-Haw was thinking. "School house? Humph? He was going over and over in his mind when suddenly he saw a school house right ahead."

"I won't go another step!" he brayed, sitting down in the middle of a narrow bridge.

And nothing Mister Farmer could do would make him move. They all got down and unhitched, but still Harry sat there.

Pretty soon who should come tearing down the road but Billy Beard with lowered head.

"He's going to butt down that school-house," thought Harry, angrily.

But instead the goat made straight for the donkey and knocked him off the bridge into the water. But as Harry went over the edge, he let fly with his heels and bang! Away went Billy into the water, too!

"A stubborn disposition can do more damage than all the iron heels and bone heads in the world," said Mister Farmer, soberly.

It is a curious paradox that precisely in proportion to our own intellectual weakness, will be our credulity as to the mysterious powers assumed by others.—Colton.

A Tough Winter Ahead

The Tangle

LETTER FROM RUTH ELLINGTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT.

I would give anything in the world, Leslie dear, if you were here with me. You have no idea how few things fifteen hundred dollars will buy. However, I have managed to obtain credit for about two thousand dollars more. How I was able to obtain it is rather an interesting story.

I wonder if you remember my telling you of a Jewish friend of Harry's, a boy who had attached himself to Harry's father who perhaps you know was in the manufacture business. Harry always contrived to see him when he went to New York. As he grew up, he managed to save a little money and invested in a small cloak and suit business. I had not seen him for years, in fact I never knew him very well, but yesterday when I was buying things for the shop I ran into him.

He was positively tearful over Harry's defection and when I told him what I was trying to do he said, "Whatever Harry has done, Mrs. Ellington, it was him that gave me my first start and I'll only be doing what's right to help you a little. I'll take you to meet my friend, Sol Eisenhouer, and between us we can fix you up all right. I am sure."

I went with him very gladly, all the while thinking in my heart what a strange stroke of fate it was that this ignorant Jewish boy was ready to do me a great favor because the man who had done me the worst wrong that a man could do to a woman had been a friend to him in his youth.

Mr. Bloom, his name is Jacob Bloom, introduced me to his friend and told him to let me have anything that I wished. Consequently I plunged a little and am coming back bringing some wonderful "pretties" and a great deal of enthusiasm.

Leslie, you are a real friend. Let me no other after this tell me that women do not befriend one another, that they have not a stricter sense of personal honor and a greater loyalty to those for whom they profess friendship than have men.

Harry left his best friend, the man who had stood by him through thick and thin, in the lurch when it came to helping himself, and yet I expect that even now Jack would again reiterate that old foolish lie that women do not stick together.

After all, Leslie, I believe that this thing we call sex is only something that is purely biological.

There is no one set of virtues belonging to one sex and no one set of vices that can be ascribed to another. Honesty, loyalty, bravery, even morality itself, is distributed among man and woman according to their educational environment. Which brings us back to the thing that I have heard you say so many times—there are good women and bad women and good men and bad men.

Speaking of that, dear, Mr. Bloom insisted upon taking me to see a moving picture last night called "Tramping Home," because he was interested in a young woman who played the principal part. She used to live in Albany. I wonder if you'll meet her. Her name is Paula Perier and at one time she was quite famous in the town.

The picture was very strange. I must tell you about it, but have no time now for I want to finish up my work today. Expect to be home tomorrow afternoon.

Lovingly, RUTH.

Editor The Tribune: The Tribune has been gracious enough to print a few lines I wrote on the Turkey question, showing the clean profit one man is making on this venture. Now that was not written with any intent of showing the farmer how to run his business, but simply to give a concrete illustration of the results of not carrying all the eggs in one basket. Nothing gives me such a pain as for a city man trying to show the rural fellow how to run his affairs, but there can be no harm in giving facts on any question, and certainly the farming question is a large one and without successful and prosperous farmers, the city folk will go mighty hungry.

I was down in the Glencoe section a few days ago and stopped at a sign on a farm, which read: "Watermelon for sale." I purchased a few and then asked the owner what success he had. He told me that he plowed up a small patch of ground that had been used for a corral, and in consequence was highly fertilized. On this patch of watermelons, this fall the crop of 1200 that he had several loads of pumpkins and squash still on hand and he proved one of the most money-makers he ever had.

That Fort Yates man that brought to the city a hat made of watermelons last month is another illustration of the fact that the melon is an item of profit that should not be overlooked. This producer told me that he had never had a better crop of watermelons than he had this year.

The case involved a suit for $300 and damages and costs alleged to have been sustained by the Hebron mill when the Western Union Telegraph company transmitted an offer of 1,000 barrels of flour at a price of $7.30 a barrel instead of $7.60 per barrel.

While a number of cases were disposed of dismissal of a number of others took place. Cases dismissed included: Peter Landseid, vs. Fred Schwank, R. Culmann, Peter S. Jagers and Roman Thering; Frank J. Schmitz and Co. vs. Mandan-Washington Fruit Co.; Unique Illustrating company vs. Wm. Muske and B. A. Williams; Eugene Swift vs. Marie Swift; Clara P. Young vs. John Olin.

The two cases of the state of North Dakota vs. I. F. Hoppenstedt will go to trial Monday.

THE FOOL

By Channing Pollock.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, marries Jerry Goodkind for his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermons. Gilchrist is sent to the coal mines by Goodkind senior and wires that a big strike is settled.

A delegation of strikers comes north to interview the president and directors. They are received in Jerry's home. An agreement which Gilchrist had made tentatively with the miners is shown to Goodkind. Daniel calls to see Jerry's father. Jerry meets him and forbids him to speak to Clare.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Benfield, sensing his perturbation, came alongside him and peered over his shoulder. Gilchrist stood patiently, but a look of hardness was coming into his eyes that usually were all gentleness.

"What's that?" demanded Benfield. Goodkind read from the sheet. "Hereby agreed—the men are to be represented on the board of directors."

"No!" came from the none-too-surprised Benfield. "Yes—and look here." Goodkind read aloud again. "All disputes referred—to a committee of arbitration."

"The man's gone crazy," stormed Benfield. Gilchrist took a step toward them and lifted a hand.

"When you're through I—" he started. Goodkind was reading again. "One-half of all profits, over and above a fair dividend to be divided pro rata, according to wage and length of service." He looked up. "Why—" he started, then seemed to choke. "What is this?" he demanded.

"Jerry told you what it is," stormed Benfield. "It's surrender." Daniel cut in now, in voice as loud as a bell.

"No! No!" he protested. "It's justice." "It's nothing," returned Goodkind angrily. "It's a scrap of paper until I sign it, and I wouldn't sign it if I had to shut up every mine in West Virginia. Why should I? We've got em licked."

"If I will only let me explain," said Daniel, soothingly. "Explain what?" roared Goodkind. "They're licked. They sent a delegation up here, and we've won over the delegation."

Gilchrist's abundance of patience was ebbing. The hardness that had come to his thin, earnest face was not the hardness of wrath or malice. Rather it was the uncompromising flame of conviction.

"You mean you've bought the delegation," he said, hotly. "Who said so?" asked Goodkind, with a curious inflection.

"Jerry—not 10 minutes ago," answered Daniel. "Stoddman's a company man. Kennig's for sale. Buy him," he stormed, "and I'll go back and tell them he's bought—and prove it."

"You're working for us," put in Benfield. "I'm working for—" Daniel's voice softened.

Goodkind's shrewdness transcended his anger for a moment. He saw danger in Gilchrist's firmness and earnestness.

"Wait a minute, Benfield," he said, waving a hand at his associate. "We've all lost our heads." His tone was calmer. "Daniel and I have just been over all this and he has admitted I was right."

Daniel looked at him amusedly. "Right as far as you went," he said forcefully, "but you only went part way. You have a right to a profit on your ideas, and your investment and the labor you put back of it. The public has a right to coal and transportation, and all it needs and pays for."

He paused a moment and lifted a finger toward the other. "But, above everything else," he went on, "the workman who works honestly has a right to something more than the barest kind of a bare living, and it can all be done if you don't sink everybody's rights to accumulate a fortune you don't need and can't see. All the argument on earth can't make you all right so long as there's a Umanski in the world."

"If these people succeed there's no limit to what they'll do," argued Goodkind.

"If they fail, there's no limit to what they'll do," returned Gilchrist. "There's no good transferring control from the intelligent few to the ignorant mob." Goodkind has lost his tone of ire. He was talking to convince—talking in that suave, cool manner he had used on innumerable occasions in swinging a board of directors to his support. It was not so successful with Gilchrist.

"There's no good in anything so long as we fight each other like beasts, instead of helping each other like brothers," he answered. He was calm, too, and cool, but glowingly earnest. "There's no hope anywhere except in the great teacher, and in the understanding that what he taught was not only good morals, but good sense and good business."

Goodkind was a good listener. He was trying to win Daniel by apparent sincere consideration of his scheme of things—a consideration that would make more convincing

ZEV TO MEET IN MEMORIAM

Great Money-Winning Horse Tries to Regain Laurels

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Zev, the greatest money-winner in the history of American turfdom, races today on the historic Churchill Down course, the scene of his first impressive triumph, meeting in Memorial, his conqueror of two weeks ago in a mad race at a mile and one quarter that will live long in the records of racing.

Zev, winner of the Kentucky derby and conqueror of Papyrus, will go to the post carrying the hopes of his admirers to blot out that surprising victory in the Kentucky derby which he won in the Latonia championship stakes, his first defeat in nine races since capturing the Derby.

BISONS WILL MAKE TRIP TO PACIFIC COAST

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 17.—The 1923-24 Bison basketball team of the North Dakota Agricultural College will take a barnstorming trip to the west coast during the holidays. Plans now being made by Coach "Red" Dewey, manager of the team, to visit Seattle, Spokane, Butte, Walla Walla and Tacoma are among the cities where the Bisons are expected to show their skill on the basketball court.

Coach Dewey is trying to arrange a game with the University of Oregon at Portland. In this city, the Bisons will also play the Multnomah and Astoria clubs. Dewey has played and coached for both of these teams. The Astoria Legion team at Astoria will also be engaged if present plans are carried out.

Krause Matched At Ellendale

Poet To Lose Italian Home

Berlin, Nov. 17.—Ludwig Fulda, the German poet and dramatist, built himself a little chalet fifteen years ago in the Tyrolean Alps at Cerrezza, near Bozen. When the Italian government took over that part of Austria the assessors placed a valuation of $45,000 on Fulda's property and advised him that he would be allowed to retain the place and continue his literary work in peace.

But the poet was recently advised that the Italian state will expropriate his home as the Italian officials now say all of his furnishings and belongings, together with the house, are worth more than 50,000 lire, and that no German is allowed to retain property which exceeds that figure in value. Fulda was expelled from his home and not even permitted to remove his personal belongings.

While Fulda has written many plays and novels, he is known chiefly for his rendition of Shakespeare's sonnets into German with such skill that they became as popular with Germans as the Shakespearean plays are.

WOMAN JUROR GIVES VIEWS

Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 17.—Mrs. George Loring of Courtois, the only woman juror drawn for the term of county court in session here, in an interview has given her views on woman's responsibility. She states she believes women should accept their legal responsibilities and not try to evade them. In jury service, which she as a citizen does not feel justified in shirking, she says. She was called as a juror in a liquor case but was excused by the defense. She says that while she does not believe in drinking liquor, she still believes she could fairly decide on the evidence in any such case, regardless of any personal opinions as to the wisdom of drinking.

NO GREAT INFLUX

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 17.—Thus far there has been no great influx of American tourists into the province of Manitoba as a result of the adoption by that province of a system of government liquor sales, according to R. D. Waugh of Winnipeg, former member of the Allied reparations commission, and now liquor administrator for Manitoba, who was here. Mr. Waugh said that it is yet too early to make any statement as to how the government dispensing system is working out in Manitoba and expressed the opinion that the liquor problem is a world wide one rather than that of any particular province or state.

Switching Charge Case Postponed
Because of conflicting dates, the Commission has found it necessary to postpone the hearing in Case No. 1980, Zap Colliery Company vs. Northern Pacific Railway Company. This is a complaint that the switching charges between points on the spur track, serving the mine and a public junction are unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory and illegal. Considerable interest is attached to this proceeding and the Commission was reluctant to postpone the hearing, but subsequent to issuing the notice in this case, the Interstate Commerce Commission has assigned the general grain rate investigation for hearing at Minneapolis, on the 26th of November, and it has been necessary to take this action.

The Commission, on November 7th, suspended for 120 days, the rates on Lignite as filed by the Northern Pacific Railway Co., in N. D. R. C. 183, I. C. C. 7852. The Commission also petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to suspend, pending investigation, the same tariff filed by the N. P. Ry. as the rates appeared to be unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory.

The Moore and Liberty Telephone Company was given permission to sell its Line No. 7 to Messrs. Jones, Nessett and Benson.
The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company was given permission to discontinue the toll stations at Maza, Grand Harbor and Britton. Investigation showing that receipts did not warrant the station as they did not take care of maintenance and depreciation.

The application of the Midwest Power Company to reduce rates for cooking purposes at Carrington and Oakes was approved.
The Dennybrook-Aurelia Telephone Company was granted permission to file reduced rates for telephone service.

The Commission, upon petition of the Northern Pacific Railway, has reopened for further hearing, the Lignite Case listed above.
This Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity was cancelled as H. L. Mosher failed to comply with the Commission's requirements.

FALL WEATHER IS FAVORABLE FOR FARMERS

Fall Plowing Well Advanced and Winter Rye Has Obtained a Very Good Start

HOG NUMBER GAINS

Weather has continued to favor fall work in the state and a generally good start and stand of winter rye which contrasts very favorably with the progress made at this time a year ago in the opinion of the reports received at this office covering the first half of November, says the mid-monthly report of J. G. Diamond, U. S. statistician, Grand Forks. (Fall plowing is considered to be well advanced compared with usual and a much larger acreage is considered to have been fall plowed than was the case a year ago when drought curtailed the work. In the western counties where the larger share of tillage normally is spring plowing there is considerable fall plowing reported this year with a view of thus being able to get spring wheat seeding in earlier. With few exceptions reports all show a sufficiency of feed staples for winter use and in many instances surpluses. This year's large and favorable corn crop has been encouraging to the hog and dairy cattle farmers and a few reports from southeastern counties mention shipments of shelled corn in carload lots to outside markets. Potato movement has fallen off since the beginning of the month.

The temporarily pitted stock is believed to be well cleaned up and growers with potatoes in safe storage are in no hurry to unload at present prices.
While wheat farmers have had much discouragement as a result of poor yields, reports are well agreed that a better balancing of farm crops will be stimulated by this year's experience together with more interest in the milk cow and hog and farm poultry.

The number of stock hogs in North Dakota on September 1 as determined by the annual survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and announced this week shows a gain of 12 per cent over the numbers held on September 1 a year ago and a gain of 10 per cent compared with 1921. The increase for the United States as a whole was but 0.3 per cent compared with 1922, and 7.4 per cent compared with 1921. For the Corn Belt states combined the increase this year over last year was 4.3 per cent.

Organization of an active democratic club, to serve as a model for the perfection of other clubs throughout the state, is the principal aim of the meeting called for next week, it is announced. It is planned to hold other meetings throughout the state and organize similar clubs. The committee on arrangements for the Minot meeting consists of Judge C. J. Fisk, Halvor L. Halvorson, and Dan Dougherty, all of Minot.

Prominent democrats from other parts of the state are expected to be in attendance.
Through the medium of democratic clubs, according to Mr. Woolledge, it is hoped to perfect an active organization to function preliminary to the presidential primaries in the state on next March 18. At that election delegates to the different national conventions are to be named as well as a national committee-men and there is a possibility that there may be some referred laws to vote upon.

Krause Matched At Ellendale

But Krause, claimant of the welter-weight championship of the state and Bessie Furness of Casper, Wyoming, have been matched for a round in the main event of a boxing card at Ellendale on November 22. They met at Fargo last Labor Day, Krause winning the newspaper verdict.

Poet To Lose Italian Home

Berlin, Nov. 17.—Ludwig Fulda, the German poet and dramatist, built himself a little chalet fifteen years ago in the Tyrolean Alps at Cozzetta, near Bozen. When the Italian government took over that part of Austria the assessors placed a valuation of $45,000 on Fulda's property and advised him that he would be allowed to retain the place and continue his literary work in peace. But the poet was recently advised that the Italian state will expropriate his home as the Italian officials now say all of his furnishings and belongings, together with the house, are worth more than 50,000 lire, and that no German is allowed to retain property which exceeds that figure in value. Fulda was expelled from his home and not even permitted to remove his personal belongings.

WOMAN JUROR GIVES VIEWS

Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 17.—Mrs. George Laing of Courtenay, the only woman juror drawn for the term of county court in session here, in an interview has given her views on woman's responsibility. She states she believes women should accept their legal responsibilities and not try to evade them in any manner. There is a civic duty to perform, which she as a citizen does not feel justified in shirking, she says. She was called as a juror in a liquor case but was excused by the defense. She says that while she does not believe in drinking liquor, she still believes she could fairly decide on the evidence in any such case, regardless of any personal opinions as to the wisdom of drinking.

NO GREAT INFLUX

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 17.—Thus far there has been no great influx of American tourists into the province of Manitoba as a result of the adoption by that province of a system of government liquor sales, according to R. D. Waugh of Winnipeg. Former member of the Allied reparations commission, and now liquor administrator for Manitoba, who has been in the province since it was first made an independent state, is working over in Manitoba and expressed the opinion that the liquor problem is a world wide one and that that of any particular state is only a part of it.

River Valley Railroad Co., Minneapolis. Application for permission to issue and sell 500 shares of common stock of par value $100.

Donnybrook-Aurelia Telephone Co., Donnybrook, N. D. Filing of reduced telephone rates.
Switching Charge Case Postponed. Because of conflicting dates, the Commission has found it necessary to postpone the hearing in Case No. 1980, Zap Colliery Company vs. Northern Pacific Railway Company. This is a complaint that the switching charges between points on the spur track, serving the mine and a public junction are unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory and illegal. Considerable interest is attached to this proceeding and the Commission was reluctant to postpone the hearing, but subsequent to issuing the notice in this case, the Interstate Commerce Commission has assigned the general rate investigation for hearing at Minneapolis, on the 26th of November, and it has been necessary to take this action.

Case Decided. The Commission, on November 7th, suspended for 120 days, the rates on Lignite as filed by the Northern Pacific Railway Co., in N. D. R. C. 183, I. C. C. 7852. The Commission also petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to suspend, pending investigation, the same tariff filed by the N. P. Ry. as the rates appeared to be unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory.

The Moore and Liberty Telephone Company was given permission to sell its Line No. 7 to Messrs. Jones, Nessett and Benson.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company was given permission to discontinue the toll stations at Mapee, Grand Harbor and Britton. Investigation showing that receipts did not warrant the station as they did not take care of maintenance and depreciation.

The application of the Midwest Power Company to reduce rates for cooking purposes at Carrington and Oakes was approved.

The Donnybrook-Aurelia Telephone Company was granted permission to file reduced rates for telephone service.

The Commission, upon petition of the Northern Pacific Railway, has reopened for further hearing, the Lignite Case listed above.

This Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity was cancelled as H. L. Mosher has failed to comply with the Commission's requirements.

This Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity was cancelled as C. A. Johnson has disregarded the rules of this Commission.

The Certificate held by Peter L. Anton, Jr., was cancelled as his business has been taken over by Weinstein Bros. of Mandan.

The Certificate held by J. J. Keavin was cancelled as he had abandoned operation and filed statements required by the Commission.

FALL WEATHER IS FAVORABLE FOR FARMERS

HOG NUMBER GAINS

Weather has continued to favor fall work in the state and a generally good start and stand of winter rye which contains very favorable signs with the progress made at this time a year ago in the opinion of the reports received at this office covering the first half of November, says the mid-monthly report of J. G. Diamond, U. S. statistician, Grand Forks. (Fall plowing is considered to be well advanced compared with usual and a much larger acreage considered to have been fall-plowed than was the case a year ago when drought curtailed the work. In the western counties where the larger share of tillage normally is spring plowing there is considerable fall plowing reported this year with a view of thus being able to get spring wheat seeding in earlier. With few exceptions reports all show a sufficiency of feed supplies for winter use and in many instances surplus. This year's large and favorable corn crop has been encouraging to the hog and dairy cattle farmers and a few reports from southeastern counties mention shipments of shelled corn in carload lots to outside markets. Potato movement has fallen off since the beginning of the month.

Baffle "Old Man Winter"

He exacts a heavy toll from automobiles. His favorite plan of attack is to prevent the forces of lubrication from functioning.

His success or failure depends entirely upon the quality of lubricating oil that you use. If you use inferior oil you can't beat him; your car will be hard to start; batteries and starter will be strained severely; the frictional and bearing surfaces of your car may lock; you will be wasting power because your pistons are not sealed —but if you then you will have every frictional surface covered with a cushion of oil.

Your car will start readily, especially so if you use Red Crown Gasoline.

You will have power and you will not waste any, for Polarine seals your pistons against loss of power.

Polarine is designed to render a superior service — it flows freely at extremes of temperature — it has the correct viscosity — it will not break down — it will function always.

Consult chart on the left for the correct grade of Polarine for your car.

Drain your crank case every five hundred miles and refill with Polarine — it is the essence of economy.

AUTO BODY TO ASK REMOVAL OF WAR TAX

Secretary Mellon's Recommendation for the Repeal Is Being Cited By It

A TRANSPORTATION TAX

That the war excise tax on motor vehicles, repair parts, tires and accessories is a war tax on transportation and should be removed along with the tax on telegrams, telephones and leased wires which Secretary Mellon of the U. S. Treasury recommends for repeal as being "the last of the transportation taxes established during the war," is the substance of the comment of Maj. Roy F. Britton, chairman of the Legislative Board of the American Automobile Association on the open letter of the Secretary of the Treasury to the Hon. William R. Green, Acting chairman, Committee on Ways and Means of the U. S. House of Representatives.

"From a purely technical standpoint and a literal definition of the word 'transportation' as expressed in the acts of Congress, the secretary of the treasury of course is entirely correct when he stated that the repeal of the tax on telegrams, telephones and leased wires would mean the repeal of the last of the transportation taxes established during the war," explained Major Britton. "However, when we look upon the broader aspect of transportation which must include highways in this motor age, the excise tax on motor vehicles, repair parts and accessories is nothing more than a penalty against individual transportation. To gauge the necessity of this individual transportation one has only to visualize the sudden removal of the motor vehicle from the transportation service of the Nation.

"The excise tax on motor vehicles, repair parts, tires and accessories is paid by the user of the highway just as certainly as the railroad war tax was paid by the railroad users or as the war tax on telegrams and telephones is now paid by their users. The motor tax should be removed for the same sound reasons which justified the removal of the tax on rail transportation and warrant the Secretary of the Treasury in recommending the removal of the tax on telegrams and telephones. Over 13,000,000 motor vehicles are now being paid what we believe is a discriminatory tax on transportation in that they are not taxed similarly on the product of other basic industries which they might purchase for equally important and necessary purposes.

"As an example of its unfairness, the motor vehicle user who has the misfortune to break an axle or other part of his vehicle must pay the excise tax on the replacement part. In other words, he must pay a tax on his misfortune. The motor vehicle owner in the past has submitted to this war tax because he realized that the Government must raise funds to prosecute the war and to help pay the bills after the war was over.

"Now that reductions of taxes are in order in accordance with the recommendations of the Secretary of the Treasury, he believes that due consideration should be given to the removal of war taxes which are patently discriminatory to so important a means of necessary transportation."

Dodge Brothers Cars Well Known For Long Life

Dodge Brothers motor cars are favorably known throughout the world for many important advantages, but are probably best known for their ability to give satisfactory service over a long period of years—for a period of life beyond that commonly allotted to a motor car. Ninety-four per cent of the cars that have been manufactured by this company are still in operation, day in, day out, in all parts of the country.

At Taylor, N. D., is Dodge Brothers Touring Car No. 217, which left the factory in December, 1914, this is about nine years ago. According to latest information this car is in daily service carrying passengers, and the owner believes that there are still many years of running still left in No. 217.

One of the most notable examples of the long life and durability of Dodge Brothers cars is found in Car No. 12, the first Dodge Brothers car shipped to the Pacific Coast, arriving there in December, 1914. No. 12 was displayed in San Francisco and Oakland, used as a demonstrator and eventually sold. Recently it was in the possession of a rancher near Santa Rosa, who used it in his daily work. He refused to sell it outright, but finally traded it in on a new car. At the present time it has been run approximately 175,000 miles.

From Walnut Cove, N. C., comes word that Car No. 5 is running satisfactorily as a service car for the Davis Repair Company. Mr. Davis writes, "The motor still has in it the original pistons and bearings that were installed at the factory nine years ago. No. 5 has been in service every day."

There was recently displayed in a parade in Manhattan, Kansas, a Dodge Brothers car sold in December, 1914. Its speedometer now shows a mileage of 224,000 miles, and the car is in constant daily use.

Carl Schaefer, of Madison, Wis., is an enthusiastic Dodge Brothers owner. Mr. Schaefer purchased a used Dodge Brothers car in September, 1918. Since then he has driven, and has proofs to support his statement, over 229,000 miles. Mr. Schaefer has sworn to the above facts before a notary.

Pennock, Minn., Nov. 17.—Bank robbers which have held Minnesota in their grip for several weeks swooped down on this little village Friday and after burning their way into the vault of the Pennock State Bank with the aid of an acetylene torch, escaped with loot from private deposit boxes estimated at $5,000. The loot consisted of Liberty Bonds and Ottotail Power Company Bonds, held by the various depositors of the institution.

NO REASON FOR REPORT OF UNREST

Major General McIntyre of Insular Affairs Asserts In His Report

Washington, Nov. 17.—Although political activities in the Philippine Islands and in Porto Rico have been marked in the last fiscal year, Major General Frank McIntyre, chief of the War Department's bureau of Insular Affairs, said in his annual report made public today that there was little justification for reports that "a condition of unrest existed in these territories."

"Political activity has been marked during the year," General McIntyre said, "both in the Philippine Islands and in Porto Rico. This has led many people in the United States to believe that a condition of unrest existed in these territories, which is very far from the fact. Both Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands have received during the past year greater benefits from the United States than at any time in the past, and these benefits have been more generally appreciated."

Regarding economic conditions prevailing in the Philippines during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1923, the report declared "progress toward normal conditions" had been continued.

"The year has been one of general prosperity," the general continued. "The first six months of the calendar year 1923 show a material betterment in foreign trade. For this period the total shipment of domestic products was $67,109,879, of which $50,470,807 came to the United States; the imports were $41,776,348, of which $24,106,133 came from the United States."

"The showing in the sugar industry was particularly favorable. The total value of sugar industry was $26,500,000 out of total exports slightly exceeding $67,000,000. "This excellent showing in the sugar industry, compared with former years, was due to the modern mills erected in the islands in recent years largely as result of free admission of their sugar into the United States."

General McIntyre also declared that the "rehabilitation of the currency system" of the Philippines "was completed during the period covered" by his report—June 30, 1922 to June 30, 1923.
